Product description

Why choose this internal power Y-cable?

Prokord Internal Power Y-Cable 4-Pin Male To 2 X SATA Female gives you a compact way to power two SATA devices from a single 4-pin peripheral power connector. It simplifies installations in small enclosures, reduces cable clutter, and helps you keep a tidy, reliable power layout for drives and optical units.

Prokord Internal Power Y-Cable 4-Pin Male To 2 X SATA Female in short:

- Splits one 4-pin peripheral power feed into two SATA power outputs, ideal for adding drives without extra power supplies.
- Short 0.1 m length limits clutter and suits compact cases and rack-mounted assemblies.
- Straight SATA power connectors align easily with drive ports for simple installation.
- Multicolour wiring helps you identify power lines during assembly and maintenance.
- Consider the short cable length if your devices are spaced far from the power source.

Product details

This cable connects a single 4-pin internal power plug to two SATA power sockets, so you can power additional SATA drives or media devices from an existing supply. The straight-form connectors and sturdy plastic housings make insertion and removal straightforward while helping to avoid strain on connectors. The cable is intended for internal use in PCs and servers; its 0.1 m length keeps runs neat but is not suitable for long-distance routing.
