Product description

Why choose this network cable?

Prokord UTP-0085W is a Cat 6, unshielded RJ-45 patch cable that delivers reliable gigabit connectivity for longer runs. The 50 m length reduces the need for extension points. Its low smoke zero halogen jacket improves safety in confined or public spaces, while the white finish helps the cable blend into office and building interiors.

Prokord UTP-0085W in short:

- Cat 6 performance, suitable for gigabit Ethernet and typical office network traffic.
- 50 m length, useful for connecting switches, patch panels, wall outlets, and remote workstations.
- LSZH jacket lowers toxic fumes and smoke in case of fire, useful for public buildings and data closets.
- Male-to-male RJ-45 connectors for standard patching between network devices.
- Note that the cable is unshielded, so consider shielded cable if you expect strong electrical interference.

Use and compatibility

This Prokord cable is a straightforward patch cable for connecting routers, switches, network ports, and active equipment. Its Cat 6 specification supports current LAN speeds and common multimedia traffic. The LSZH outer jacket makes it appropriate for installations where fire safety and reduced emissions are important. The white color keeps runs discreet along walls and ceilings, and the single-pack format fits standard deployment needs.
