

PROTECT YOUR PREMISES

Discover AXIS Camera Station surveillance and security solutions.

Security and surveillance is a priority for every business. But finding the right solution can be confusing. You don't want something that's too big and complex to manage. However, you still need a solution that's smart enough to do the job.

Everything you need from one supplier

Our solutions are designed for businesses just like yours. So, you can solve problems such as protecting staff, premises and assets, while still focusing on your core business. They're easy to install, use and maintain. And as your needs grow, you can grow your Axis system too. It's a safe investment that provides everything you need to support your operations – all from one supplier.

A complete system, for total control

If you're looking for a complete solution that can cover all your surveillance needs, look no further than AXIS Camera Station video management software. It helps you handle incidents effectively and export high-definition evidence, quickly.

You can also add extra features, so you can communicate with visitors, secure entrances and exits, handle goods deliveries and use audio for deterrence. You can even use analytics on your camera to further enhance system performance.

It's the perfect match for Axis' wide range of products. A range that includes 4K Ultra HD cameras, thermal cameras and products for harsh and hazardous environments – and much more.

Everything you need

-  Control them all with AXIS Camera Station, the easy-to-operate software interface
-
-  Video – for clear images
-  Access control – for secure premises
-  Audio – for communication
-  Visitor management – for extra security
-  Control – for integration with other devices

A complete system, for total control

'Ready to go' recorders

Our high-performance network video recorders enable high-definition surveillance up to 4K. Better still, they're ready to use straight out of the box.

AXIS S10 Recorders and AXIS S20 Appliance Recorders are preloaded with all the necessary software including AXIS Camera Station universal licenses. To make installation even easier, AXIS S20 Series also includes an integrated PoE switch.

By using these recorders alongside monitors, cameras and other devices, you'll get the perfect solution. So, there's no need to worry about incompatible technologies.

Out-of-the box ready recorders

Stay safe and secure

With Axis, you won't just get the right system to suit all your needs; you'll also get value for money and first-class support. Choose an end-to-end solution that's ready to record straight out of the box. Or build your own system, using our software with standard PCs and servers. The choice is yours.

Whatever Axis system you choose, you can rely on the best performance, all day, every day. And, as the needs of your premises grow or change, you can extend it quickly and easily. So, you can rest assured your business will be well protected.

Find out more

Our solutions based on AXIS Camera Station are easy to use, install and maintain. For more information, please visit www.axis.com/products/axis-camera-station

